

Continue Learning Outside the Classroom with Brightspace

From time to time, schools and districts must close unexpectedly due to emergency situations such as inclement weather, natural disaster, emergency repairs to facilities, or even community illness. Unexpected and extended school closures wreak havoc on learning progress and school calendars. We believe school closures should not be taken lightly, but in the event they are necessary, preparation is required.

The ability to transition quickly from classroom or blended learning to fully online learning can alleviate some of the problems caused by extended closures.

“The most important thing is that we preserve the continuity of instruction and prevent overage hours from interfering with student, teacher, and family schedules.”

- Matt Waymack, Gwinnett County Public Schools

D2L has over 20 years' experience helping schools shift to fully online or blended learning. We work closely with our customers all over North America to develop tailored plans in case of prolonged closures. This includes building school districts' understanding of how to best support equitable learning continuity with an online learning platform. Brightspace provides scalable and personalized learning anytime and anywhere. We have clients who are using Brightspace in their learning continuity plans on a regular basis today. This experience has built our understanding of what is necessary to make learning work outside the classroom for periods of time.
