

South Africa: student engagement drives digital transformation

South Africa pushes digital skills training among students and staff to implement new technologies

To understand how digital transformation is progressing, D2L has undertaken a survey of 4,830 higher education respondents around the world, including individuals in South Africa. The results show that institutions in South Africa’s higher education sector have acted with student satisfaction at the heart of their digital transformation strategies, dramatically reshaping their offerings in the process.
