[1] In an individual assignment, learners build communication and critical thinking skills as they continuously practice, self-assess, and deliver video presentations.

[2] In a question and answer assignment, learners are put on the spot to answer questions asynchronously with only a limited time to respond. This "hot seat experience" helps individuals improve their communication, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills within a real world environment.

[3] Learners collaborate synchronously or asynchronously to complete a group activity.

[4] In an Interactive Video assignment, learners watch a video and respond to related prompts.
